You can attach pictures of your dishes to the recipes. When the recipe is displayed, press the Gallery button to display the corresponding gallery:

The gallery view shows all pictures that are attached to the recipe. If your computer has a built-in camera, then you can take pictures directly from here.

To add a picture from a file, press the +-button.

Usually, the added photo is then displayed in the gallery. However, in some cases, it can happen that a new photo is not displayed immediately. In this case, press the left button to reload the gallery.

You can also store photos of recipes that you have entered in the history as recipes from external sources. In this case, the first image from the gallery is displayed next to the recipe list.
